Signs and indicators

A close-up photograph of a young child's face. The child has light skin and green eyes. There is a prominent, reddish-orange bruise around the right eye, extending from the inner corner down towards the cheek. The child's expression is neutral, and they are looking slightly to the right of the camera. The background is out of focus, showing what appears to be a white and blue striped garment.

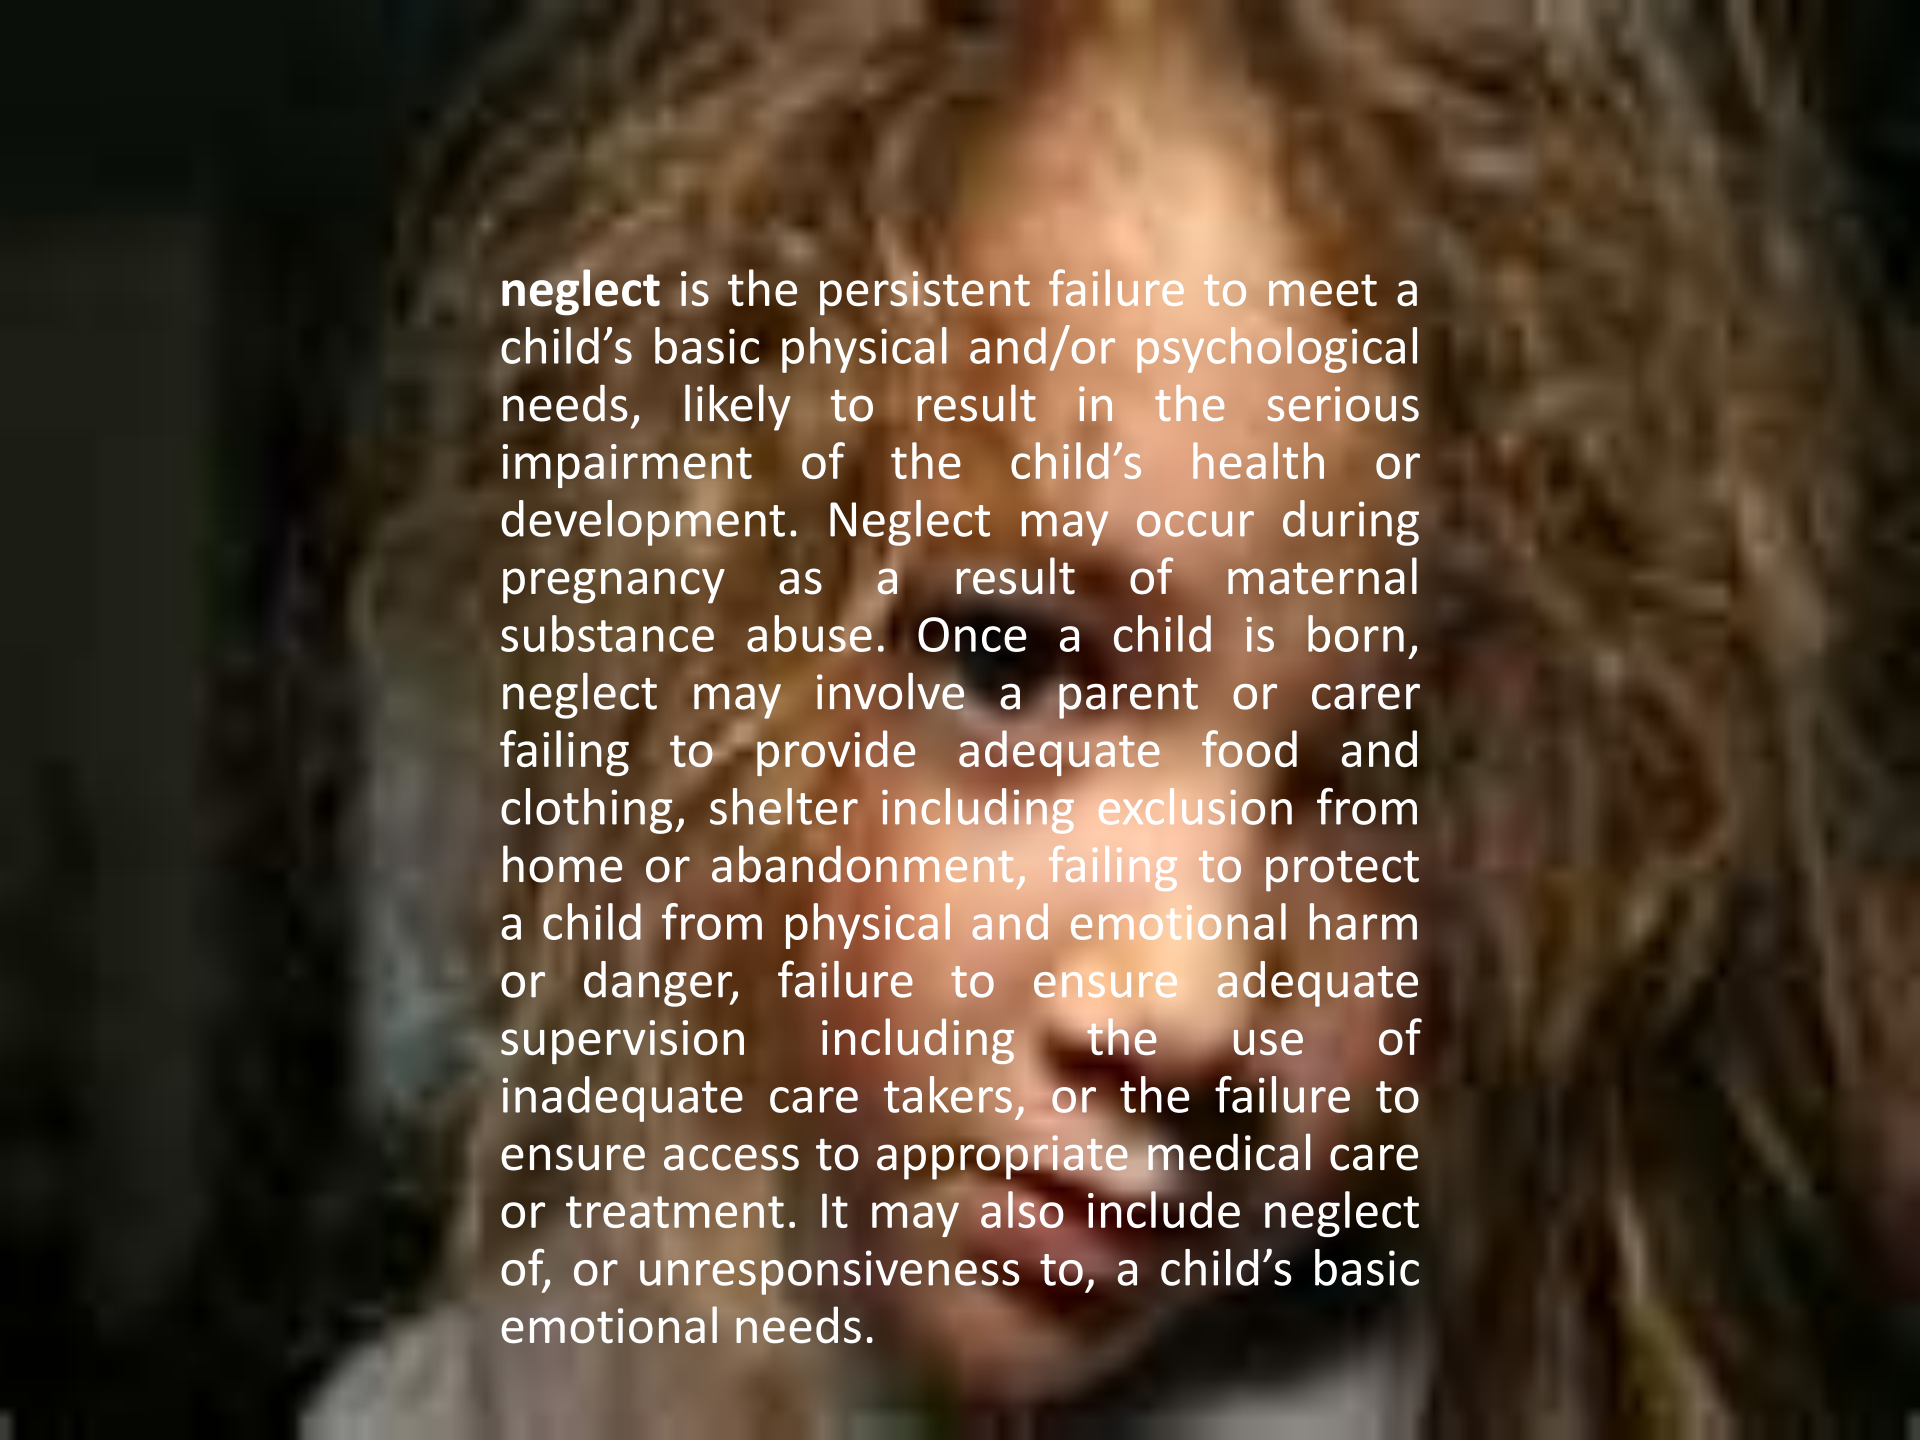

physical abuse may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer fabricated the symptoms of, or deliberately induced illness in a child.

emotional abuse is the persistent emotional ill-treatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to children that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children.

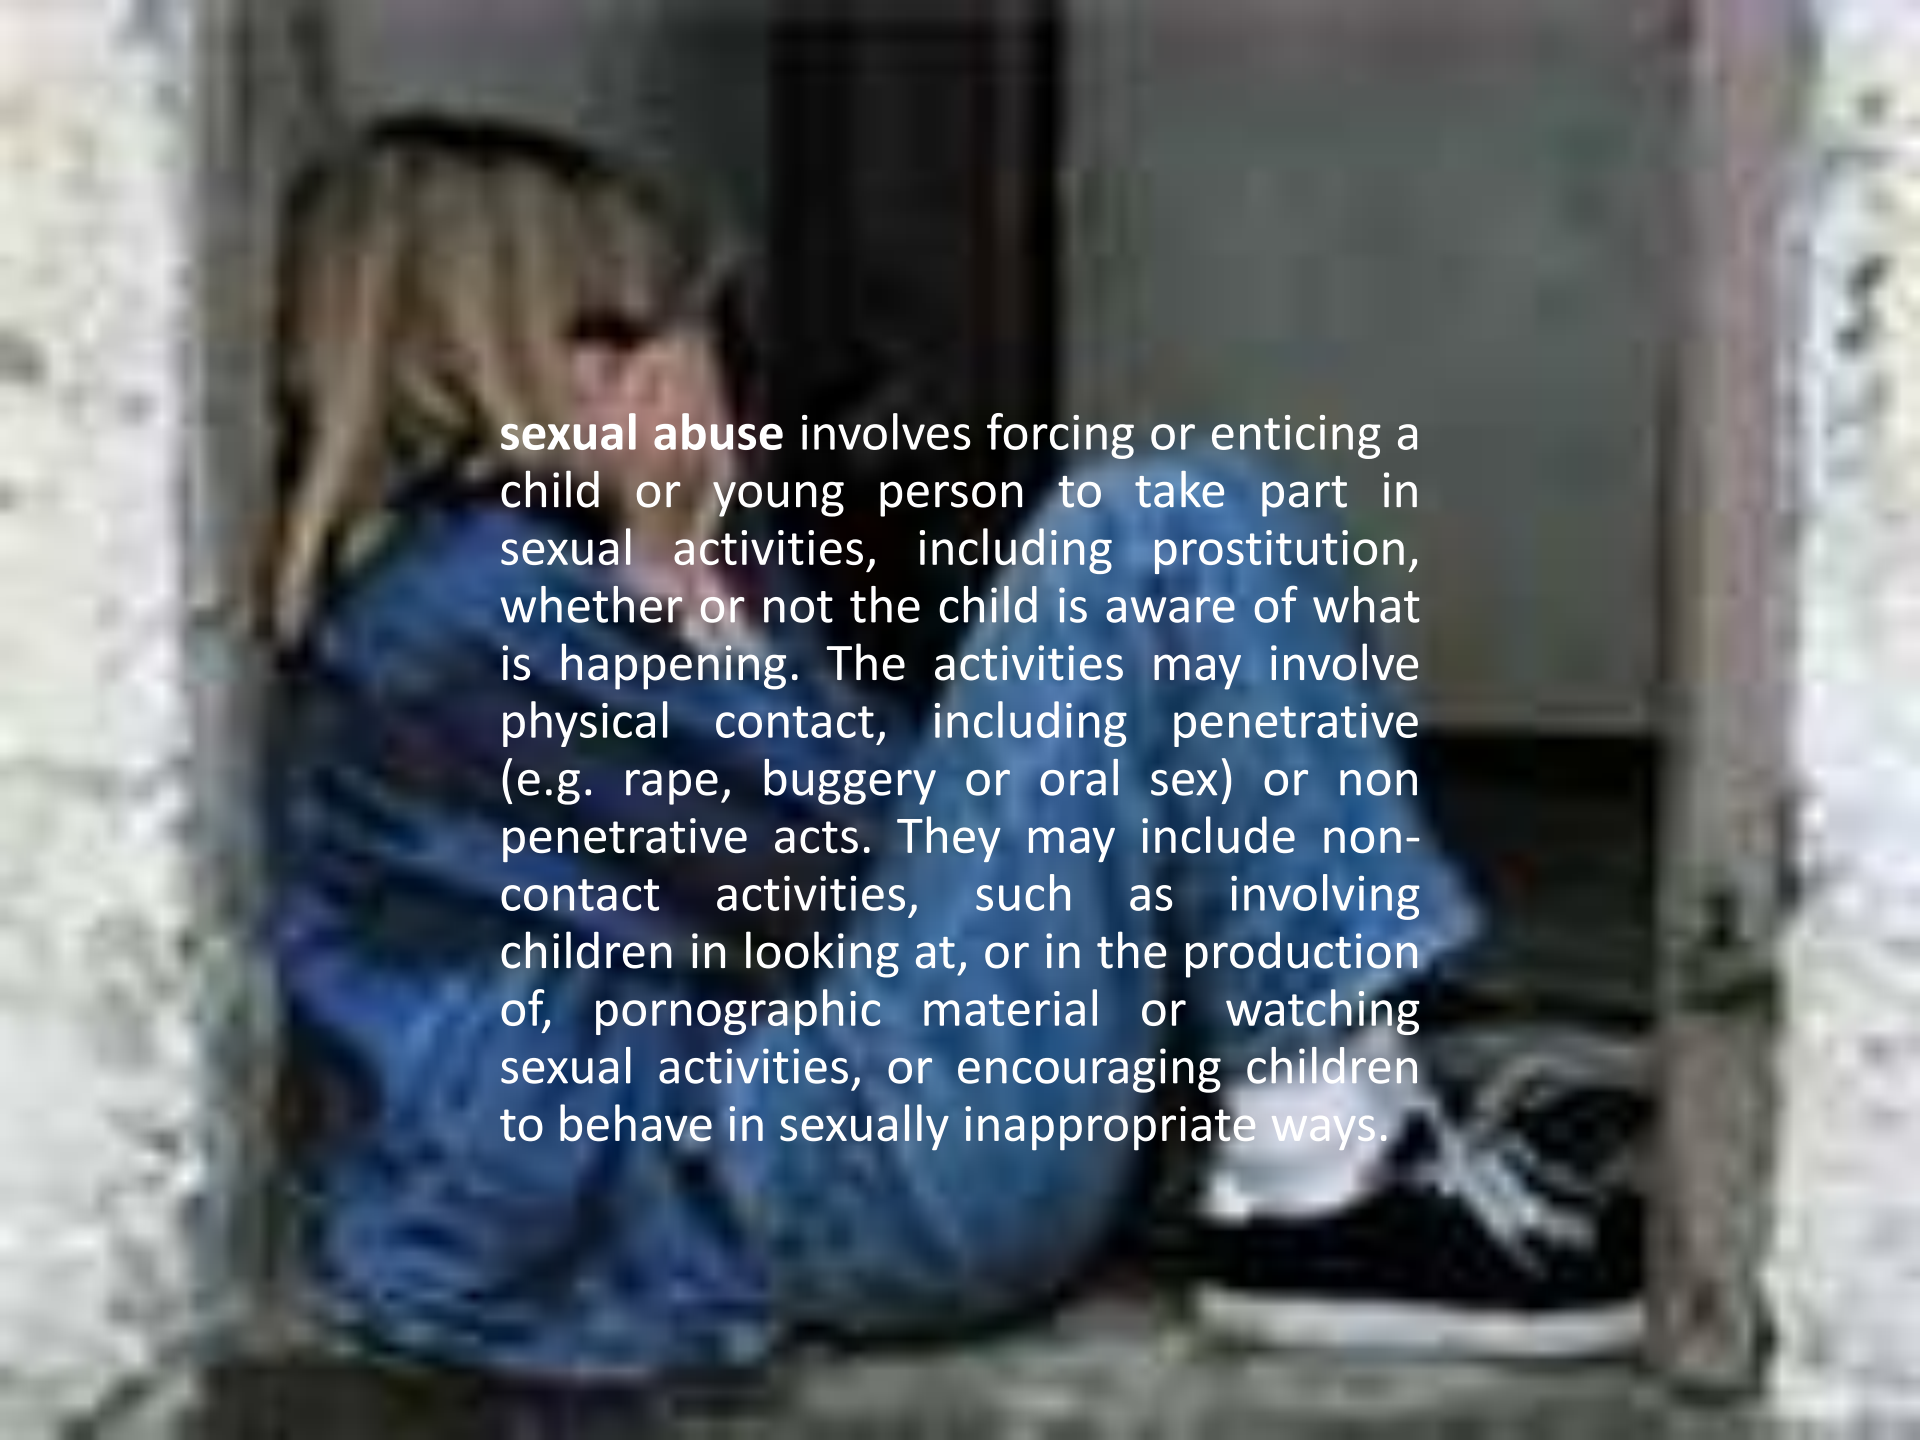

emotional abuse may include interactions that are beyond the child's developmental capability, as well as over protection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child participating in normal social interaction. It may involve seeing or hearing the ill treatment of another. It may involve serious bullying causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, though it may occur alone.

neglect is the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy as a result of maternal substance abuse. Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or carer failing to provide adequate food and clothing, shelter including exclusion from home or abandonment, failing to protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger, failure to ensure adequate supervision including the use of inadequate care takers, or the failure to ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.

sexual abuse involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, including prostitution, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including penetrative (e.g. rape, buggery or oral sex) or non penetrative acts. They may include non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, pornographic material or watching sexual activities, or encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways.

Child in Need

- A child is in need if he/she:
- Needs additional services to achieve a reasonable standard of health or development or prevent significant impairment of...
- Is disabled
- Is adversely affected by the disability or illness of a family member
- Children Law Guernsey and Alderney 2008

Children in need of protection children may be in need of protection where their basic needs are not being met in a manner which is appropriate to their individual needs and stage of development and the child is, or will be, at risk through avoidable acts of commission or omission on the part of those holding parental responsibilities

Sources of Stress for Children and Families

- Social exclusion
- Domestic violence/ abuse
- Mental illness of a parent or carer
- Drug and alcohol misuse
- Disabled Children

Establishing the Threshold

- Is the child suffering or likely to suffer from significant harm?
- Is it significant in relation to what would be expected of a similar child?
- Is the harm or likelihood of harm attributable to the care given?

Break

Duty to work together and share information

- Duty of
- Each employee of the States
- All other persons

whilst they are working with any child whom they reasonably believe is in need or at risk, to take actions to protect and promote the child's welfare and share information

Sharing information

- Child in Need:
- May share information for a child in need but need consent
- Child at Risk:
- Specific duty to share information if:
 - a. believe a child to be at risk
 - b. act in good faith
 - and
 - c. sharing is in accordance with procedures
- Children Law Guernsey and Alderney 2008 (section 27)

Passing on concerns

- Discuss with your line manager/ child protection officer
- They should pass on concerns, however if they do not or do not share your concerns you can refer to the duty social worker or discuss with duty social worker.
- Record what your concerns are and who you reported them to What gets in the way of worries being shared?

- Confidentiality
- Fear of people involved
- Lack of knowledge
- Complacency
- Loss of trust
- Make things worse

Continued.....

- Increase in workload
- Past negative experience
- Being wrong
- Fearful of outcome i.e. children taken away
- Differences of opinion within team
- Personal involvement with family

Initial Assessment

Looks at Child Protection/ Child in Need, any concerns within the family and addresses the domains of the Framework of Assessment and how each child's needs are being met

Why refer?

- Welfare of children is paramount (Children Law Guernsey and Alderney 2008)
- Children and families have a right to services that safeguard and promote welfare of children
- Safeguarding is everyone's responsibility
- Your information may help to complete the 'jigsaw' of that child's life
- Abuse and neglect impact on children's lives and beyond into adulthood

Impact of maltreatment and abuse

- Immediate and long term
- Anxiety
- Depression
- Substance misuse
- Eating disorders
- Self destructive behaviours

- Adult survivors of abuse are more likely to have relationship problems, mental health problems or turn to alcohol, drugs or crime. In a study conducted among a population of psychiatric patients, 49% of respondents reported having been sexually abused as children
- (Metcalfe 1994)

Some messages from Inquiries into the deaths of children

- The same messages emerge again and again....
- In the last 10 months of Victoria Climbié's life there were 12 occasions when individual professionals had the opportunity to protect her and failed to do so...
- Baby Peter had been seen 60 times by health and social care professionals in his short life, many had failed to recognise signs and indicators of abuse.
- Research has shown repeatedly that it is only when information from a number of sources is shared that it becomes clear that a child is at risk of being harmed
